DROLL RUSSIAN PROVERBS.

The Scotch and Spaniards have hitherto divided the proverbial wisdom but was the literature of Russia more widely known she might prove a formidable rival either to the land of oatmeal or that of oranges. We have a few specimens, which, on account of their pointed terseness, their quaint, homely vigor, and dry, Sancho Panza satire, scarcely need the aid of rhyme to recommend them. They are, indeed, more fully than words can express, the faithful mirror of the shrewd, simple, degged, humorous mind, ever veiling its natural keenness under a mask of habitual and impenetrable stolidity.

THE HOME OF WASHINGTON.

For nearly a quarter of a century past, Benson J. Lossing, the artist author of Field Book of the Revolution, History of the United States, etc., has been one of the most diligent and successful laborers in the rich field of American history. During that time he has traveled more than sixty thousand miles, extending to almost every portion of the union, in order to procure sketches of various scenes and objects of historic interest; for it is his good fortune to be equally happy in the use of both pen and pencil.

Attractive and popular though all his works have been, Mr. Lossing's latest volume is justly considered the crowning success of his life. Its title is as follows: The Home of Washington, or Mount Vernon, and its Associations, Historical, Biographical and Pictorial. It is a subscription book, being sold through agents only. A copy now lies on our table, from that enterprising firm, E. Hannaford & Co., 177 West Fourth street, Cincinnati.

No more beautiful book has glad-dened our eyes for many months, than this shapely quarto, printed on superfine and elegantly tinted paper, and gotten up in the highest style of the typographic art. A steel-plate portrait, from the celebrated painting of Gilbert Stuart, and an engraving of Mount Vernon, also on steel, embelish the front of the book, while the text of the work is illustrated with no less than one hundred and forty-eight of Lossing's charming pictures facsimiles of interesting MSS., etc. The binding is both elegant and substantial.

The Home of Washington is undoubtedly the most complete, satisfactory and delightful record ever prepared of the domestic and private life of The Father of his Country. Every American is, of course, familiar with the general, the statesman, and the president, but this work reveals to us the man, in all the dignity and beauty of his personal character. It also furnishes a great amount of fresh and interesting matter, not attainable from any other source, and is the only work extant describing fully the condition, past and present, of Mount Vernon.
 Many of the illustrations describe articles of which the originals are now lost to the world forever—swept ruthlessly away by the storms of civil war.

The publishers announce a large and rapidly increasing circulation of this delightful volume. We are not surprised at this. Its national character, the reputation of its artist author, and its low price, together with the unexcelled beauty of its mechanical execution and its perfect wealth of illustrations, are all calculated to make it one of the most popular and rapidly selling books of the age. We commend it to household treasure to the attention of our readers, whether book agents or book buyers. E. Hannaford & Co., the Cincinnati publishers, are a firm who publish only first class works, and equip their agents in the very best style.

JUST WHERE I PLEASE.

John Randolph was traveling in a part of Virginia with which he was unacquainted. In the meantime he stopped during the night at an inn near the forks of the road.

The inn-keeper was a fine old gentleman, and no doubt, one of the first families of the Old Dominion. Knowing who his distinguished guest was, he endeavored to draw him into conversation, but failed in all efforts. But in the morning, when Mr. Randolph was ready to start, he called for his bill, which, on being presented was paid. The landlord, still anxious to have some conversation with him, began as follows:

"Which way are you traveling, Mr.
 Randolph?"

"Sir," said Randolph, with a look of displeasure.

"I asked which way you were traveling," said the landlord.

"Have I paid my bill?"

"Yes."

"Do I owe anything more?"

"No."

"Well, I am going just where I please. Do you understand?"

"Yes."

The landlord by this time got somewhat excited, and Mr. Randolph drove off. But to the landlord's surprise, the servant returned to inquire which of the forks of the road to take. Randolf not being out of hearing, the landlord spoke at the top of his voice:

"Mr. Randolph, you don't owe me anything, just take which road you please."

It is said the air turned red with the curse of Randolph.

THE ALARM BELL OF ATRI.

BY E. W. LONGFELLOW.

At Atri in Abruzzo, a small town
 Of ancient Roman date, but scant renown—
 One of these little places that have run
 Half up the hill, beneath a blazing sun,
 And then sat down to rest, as if to say,
 "I'll climb no farther upward, come what may!"

The tri-olivari, now unknown to fame,
 So many monarchs since have borne the name,
 Had a great bell hung in the market place
 Beneath the roof, projecting some small space.

By way of shelter from the sun and rain,
 Then rode he through the streets with all his train,
 And, with the blast of trumpets loud and long,

Made proclamation, that whenever wrong
 Was done to any man, he should bring
 The great bell in the square, and he, the King,
 Would cause the Synde to decide thereon:
 Such was the proclamation of King John.

How happily the days in Atri sped,
 What wrongs were righted, need not here be said.
 Suffice it that, as all things must decay,
 The hempen rope at length was worn away.
 Untraveled at wasted in the ring's hand,
 Lapsed at last into the hands of a boy,
 Till one, who noted this in passing by,
 Mended the rope with braids of briony,
 So that the leaves and tendrils of the vine
 Hung like a votive garland at a shrine.

By chance it happened that in Atri dwelt A knight, with spur on heel and sword in belt,
 Who loved to hunt the wild bear in the woods,
 Who loved his falcons with their crimson hoods,
 Who loved his hounds and horses, and all sports

And profligacies of camps and courts;—
 Loved, or had loved them; for at last grown old,
 His only passion was the love of gold.

He sold his horses, sold his hawks and hounds,
 Rented his vineyards, and his garden grounds,
 Kept but one steed, his favorite steed of all,
 To stroke and deliver in a naked stall,
 And, day by day, sat brooding in his chair,
 Devising plans how best to hoard and spare.

At length he said, "What is the use or need
 To keep at my own cost this lazy steed,
 Eating his head off in my stable here,
 When rents are low and provender is dear?
 Let him go feed upon the public ways;
 I will buy him only for the holidays."
 So the old steed was turned into the heat
 Of the long, lonely, silent, shadowless street;
 Barked at by dogs, and torn by briar and thorn.

One afternoon, as in that sultry clime
 It is the custom in the summer time,
 With closed doors, and window-shutters closed,
 The inhabitants of Atri slept or dozed;
 When suddenly upon their senses fell
 The loud alarm of the accusing bell!

The Synde started from his sweet repose, Turned on his couch, and listened, and then rose
 And donned his robes, and with reluctant pace,
 Went padding forth into the market place,
 Where the great bell upon its cross-beam swung.

Reiterating with persistent tongue,
 In half-articulate jargon, the old song:
 "Some one hath done a wrong, hath done a wrong!"

But ere he reached the bell's light arcade,
 He saw, or thought he saw, beneath its shade,
 No shape of human form, of woman born,
 But a poor steed, dejected and forlorn.

Who with uplifted head and angry eye
 Was tugging at the reins of briony.
 "Demondly!" cried the Synde straight,
 "He calls the Knight of Atri's steed of state!
 He calls for justice, being sore distressed,
 And pleads his cause as loudly as the best."

Meanwhile from street and lane a noisy crowd
 Had rolled together like a summer cloud,
 And told the story of the wretched beast.

At five and twenty different ways at least,
 With much gesticulation and appeal
 To heathen gods, in their excessive zeal,
 The Knight was called and questioned; in reply

Did not confess the fact, did not deny;
 Treated the matter as a pleasant jest,
 And set at naught the Synde and the rest,
 Maintaining, in an angry undertone,
 That he should do what pleased him with his own.

And thereupon the Synde gravely read
 The proclamation of the King; then said:
 "Pride goeth forth on horseback grand and gay."

But caught back on foot and begs its way;
 Prance is the perfume of heroic deeds,
 Of flowers of chivalry and not of weeds!
 These are familiar proverbs; but I fear
 They never yet have reached your knightly ear.

What fair renown, what honor, what repute
 Can come to you from starving this poor brute?

He who serves well and speaks not, merits more Than they who clamor loudest at the door.
 Therefore the law decrees, that as this steed Served you in youth, henceforth you shall take him to place.

To comfort his old age, and to provide Shelter in stall, and food and field beside."

The Knight withdrew abashed; the people all
 Led home the steed in triumph to his stall.
 The King heard and approved, and laughed

And cried aloud: "Right well it pleaseth me!"

Church-bells at best but ring us to the door;
 But go not into mass; my bell doth more:
 It cometh into court and pleads the cause Of creatures dumb and unknown to the laws.

And this shall make, in every Christian clime,
 The bell of Atri famous for all time."
 —Atlantic Monthly.

The Miner's Journal, of Pottsville, Pa., having stated there was a man in the place who had been drunk for thirty-five years, its editor says he has been called to account by at least twenty different persons, who insist that the item was a personal attack upon them. The man he really referred to, the editor remarks, "is sharp enough to keep his mouth shut about it, but keeps on drinking just as if not a word had been said."

TOBACCO.

The truth may as well be stated first as last. The time approaches, and now is, when those who have been attempting to live conscientious lives and yet habitually use tobacco, must either abandon the habit or manfully defend it as being harmless if not virtuous.
 With the constant elevation of the standard and the tests of Christian character, with the steady increase of light from science, scripture and common sense, tobacco, must either go to the wall or prove itself a slandered honest desire to help good men to see this matter as we see it, and as the better public sentiment is beginning to regard it, we briefly state the case.

The habitual use of tobacco is wrong, because it injures, constantly, permanently the brain and the health of the user, and that injury is not confined to himself, but is transmitted to his children. The highest medical authorities, substantially agree upon this general verdict, and no array of apparent exceptions to the rule can shake the fact itself. Insanity and various fatal forms of brain disease are well known to be appropiated by the use of tobacco; and it is a favorite aphorism with many physicians that if tobacco could be abolished the disease known as consumption would be confined chiefly to women, and in them it would be mainly caused by tight lacing.

Tobacco using is wrong because it accustoms the user to the habitual disregard of the comfort or well being of others. This will sound harsh to the gentle smoker, but nothing could be truer. One of the worst annoyances of this life, for all women and most of smoking men, is the necessity of breathing air poisoned by the stale fumes of a cigar or pipe. The nuisance is everywhere—at the fireside, on the street, in hotels, on railroad trains, in the counting room, in the minister's study —and it is everywhere intolerable to all except the smokers. The extent and gravity of the offense committed by smokers against the rights of others can only be understood by the sufferers themselves. If any one has a right to smoke at all, he has no right to smoke in public

RAILROAD MATTERS.—All parties expecting railroad advantages from the extension of the proposed Baltimore, Pittsburgh & Continental road are at work like beavers. Our Akron neighbors are going for it with their accustomed zeal and energy, and co-operating with them are the people of Salem, both places having held large and enthusiastic meetings; they talk and print very sanguinely—almost are that they are in possession of the coveted prize. On the other hand Canton, and many places east and west are equally energetic, busy and sanguine as to their prospects in having the same road passing their doors. The question is still an open one as to the location of the proposed route; but as it is certain to be built, according to present indications, somebody will have the advantage of its facilities for usefulness. As our people have seen several railroad projects, which promised a great deal but failed to realize even an existence, they have remained quiet as to this contemplated improvement, which is so eagerly being sought for by towns and cities in this part of the country. We shall not envy, but wish our neighbors success in their expectations. But while they are thus agitated and are assiduously at work, there seems to be pretty decided evidences that the Lake Shore road, a wealthy and enterprising power, is seeking a new connection with the south, in order to avail itself of the great advantages which a direct connection with the mineral regions will confer. Measures are being taken even so far as to secure a charter, to carry out this proposed work, and among the incorporators, of whom there are five, all prominent business men, is the name of Clement Russell, Esq., of this place. Without speculating in glowing anticipations of the future, this movement certainly wears the appearance of business, and soon will develop the fact as to whether it will be a reality. Taking this view of the question it would seem that Massillon is on the road to prosperity, at least so far as railroad advantages are required—equal at present to the prospects of our enterprising neighbors. But it is with cities and towns as with individuals, they should not rely on outside aid too much but go to work at home in every available way, and their enterprise will attract these outside influences to seek connection with them. This spirit will do as much to bring railroads and other public improvements to a place as any other means that man can devise; but when nature favors a location with mineral resources in such a way as Massillon is blessed with, then its prospects are brighter and surer of success. And while the Lake Shore project seems to be all right for us the question is yet an open one as to whether Massillon is not also to be favored with the presence of this much coveted Baltimore and Pittsburgh extension to the north-west.

Parties and politicians are taking position, pronouncing their platforms, choosing candidates, and making arrangements for the coming elections. The republicans of Maine have adopted the prohibition plank in their platform, which supersedes the necessity of a strictly temperance organization in that state. They will have to do so in other states, or possibly their opponents may get in ahead, even on this question, for the democracy is a very accommodating party.

A draft of a new general election law has been presented to the senate, which proposes to make the day for choosing congressmen the same in all the states—that is, the first Monday in November, and putting the number of representatives at 300. Where there are fractions in any of the states it is proposed to choose one or more members by general ticket. These changes are designed to meet the wants of the times, and if put into practice will secure some advantages, especially in having the election for congressmen on the same day all over the union. Whether it becomes a law or not depends on the concurrence of the popular branch

A murder case was lately tried in N. Y., in which a man was charged with shooting his wife on suspicion that she was false toward him. The jury did not find him crazy, but decided that he was guilty of murder in the first degree, and recommended him to the mercy of the governor. It does look as if jurors wish hanging were out of fashion, for they seem to see that they are not altogether innocent if they find a man guilty of murder, and hence, by their verdict condemn him to death.

The news from foreign nations for a day or two last week, in the daily papers, read quite warlike, especially in the complications between France and Prussia, but the sensation may soon blow over.

BOARD OF TRADE.
In pursuance to a call issued on last Saturday a considerable number of the business men and citizens of Massillon assembled at Madison Hall on Monday evening, for the purpose of taking measures to organize a board of trade.

Clement Russell, Esq., was chosen president of the meeting, and Mr. Edwin Bayless secretary.

Mr. W. J. Ricks suggested that the secretary read the charter, constitution and by laws of a similar organization recently effected at Mansfield, which would explain what are the nature and requirements of a board of trade, as most of those present seemed not to be posted. After reading the document Mr. Jarvis said he favored the movement, and suggested that a competent committee have charge of preparing for a permanent organization.

Mr. Minch also urged several reasons favoring the formation of the proposed board—that it was necessary to the prosperity of the place.

Mr. S. C. Bowman was called out, and he likewise favored the contemplated board in a few brief remarks.

Mr. W. J. Ricks moved that a committee of five be named who shall prepare a charter which shall be presented at a future meeting; which motion was amended by Mr. Jarvis so as to recommend in addition to the charter, that the committee also present a constitution and by laws, which motion prevailed.

The president moved the following gentlemen as a committee for that purpose: W. J. Ricks, J. G. Warwick, F. L. Baldwin, Joseph Coleman and G. P. Reed.

Mr. Warwick named that the chairman of this committee be authorized to call another meeting at such time as may be deemed expedient, to perfect the organization.

Remarks were made by several gentlemen, who made such suggestions as appeared proper to them concerning the nature, necessities and duties of the contemplated board. There was a unity of feeling on the subject as expressed by the various speakers.

Messrs. Ricks, Jarvis, Dangler, Reed, C. Russell, E. Bayless, S. C. Bowman and others made brief and pointed speeches, all concurring in spirit and sentiment in favor of the object of the meeting.

A case of fatal sickness occurred in town the other day in a family where several members are down, which for a time created apprehensions among some lest a contagious disease might be among them, but as no other family or person is affected, that we have heard of the cause of this sickness in one place must be of a local character, and by proper care there is no danger of its spreading.

On Monday last in a rye field belonging to J. Kurtz, of Tuscarawas township, thirty-six heads of rye were found to be the product of one grain, all springing from one root. If each head has twenty-five grains here is an increase of nine hundred fold, a profligence rarely if ever equalled in this or similar grains.

Messrs. Walker & Grimessey are turning out a large variety of superior vehicles at their excellent establishment in this place. A handsomely finished band wagon for the citizens of Waynesburg is among their latest work, and for completeness of work will bear comparison with anything in that line.

It is unfortunate for our worthy neighbors at Alliance, but the report is out among the papers that they had a vast variety on the Fourth in the way of drunks, fights and killings generally. The promised balloon did not go up, but whiskey went down and caused a good many down with it.

Bro. Miller of the Liverpool Record is bound to not die. He is pluck all right. Rather than surrender he issues a spunky little sheet as full of vim as it can hold, and meets opposition and adversity with all the assurance that he is about to lay them out. Shakespeare said, "Lay on, MacDuff!" we say, lay on, Bro. Miller—you'll lick opposition yet. Never fear but such perseverance will find friends who will stick closer than a brother.

A New Awakening.—A new awning has been put up at Fred Sibila & Co's Clothing Store, on Main street, and at several other places in this city, by Mr. W. Maier. It is ahead of anything of the kind we have ever seen, being protected from the weather when rolled up, and can be easily adjusted, rolled and unrolled. It works like a charm, and we advise all who are interested to examine this awning.

The effort of our citizens to establish a board of trade on last Monday evening is a most commendable one. The population and business here have each attained sufficient magnitude to make available to advantage the duties of such a body. Such organizations are indispensable to all cities, for they fill a place to which they are peculiarly adapted, that is, they exercise a sort of direct supervision over such business matters as are not under the control of the general laws of the state, nor of the councils of towns or cities. The wonder is that Massillon has done so long without such a board.

Mr. Dangler remarked in one of his brief speeches last Monday evening, where efforts were making to establish a board of trade, that he has plenty of board now—it was the food, he was after.

There is some comfort in having economies honest enough to say what they mean. The Cincinnati Enquirer, protesting against the pending bill, says: "If this measure passes, there will be only one resource, that of the entire repudiation of the debt, principal and interest." The Enquirer is one of the leading organs of what the Tammany Society designates as "the only party that knows how to govern the country," and it came very near making the last democratic candidate for the presidency. "The entire repudiation of the debt, principal and interest,"—that is plain, at least. We shall be very glad to go before the country on it this fall.—Pittsburg.

One of the fire engine horses in Atlanta, Ga., was sick the other day, and the boys employed another, leaving him in his place in the engine house when they were called out. After they had gone Joe, the horse, became restless, and in a short time broke his halter, and galloped off to the fire, where he took his place beside his mate and remained quite contented.

The new constitution of Illinois, just adopted and to go into effect August 1st, is attracting much notice from the many new and valuable features which distinguish it. It may be that some of these will, upon trial, fail to meet the expectations of their friends; but then there is enough of assured improvement to justify the people of that state in congratulating themselves on their new organic law. The credit of most of the more valuable changes in this constitution is by common consent assigned to Joseph Medill, Esq., and to whose ability and labors the Chicago Tribune is chiefly indebted for its prosperity and influence.

If the people of any state or territory had been robbed of their lands and banished from their homes by the United States government, as the Osage Indians have been, according to the brief but terrible narrative in our dispatches, there would have been a rebellion and the government would have found no volunteers to suppress it. The treatment of the Osages is one of the most grievous wrongs which a nation ever unwittingly committed, and every consideration of right and justice imperatively demands that this crying wrong shall be instantly corrected. We are thankful to have an administration which does not hesitate to expose such infamous acts. We shall be more thankful still if the administration redresses promptly the wrongs thus laid bare.

A crisis is imminent on the continent. Military preparations were going on all last night in Paris. The candidature of Prince Leopold is not withdrawn within the next twenty-four hours the French ministers will be recalled from Berlin and Madrid and war will be declared.

The conduct of France in forcing the issue and refusing to leave the question of the throne to the Spanish people, is strongly condemned by all Europe, and Prussia's calm and dignified position is approved.

The negotiations between Paris and Ems reported to be unsatisfactory. Prussia declaring her innocence of intrigue, refuses to interfere with the candidacy of the Prince of Hohenzollern, on the ground that she has neither the right, power, nor inclination, to dictate to Spain or to Prince Leopold.

A large party in France counsel suspension of action until the meeting of the Spanish Cortes.

The general belief is that the emperor is determined to fight, and will move instantly, without giving Prussia time for preparation.

It is said that Napoleon would prefer to meet the issue now rather than after Prince Leopold is elected by the Spanish people, especially as he bases the claims of his own dynasty on the popular vote.

The cotton crop throughout the southern states is unusually promising this season. The breadth of land cultivated is 1-5 greater than last season, and thus far everything has been favorable for more than an average yield. With an average yield, the crops this season will reach 3,500,000 bales. Good judges say these figures may be increased by the addition of 250,000 or 500,000 bales. It is now believed that nothing but a visit from the cotton worm will be likely to bring the crops down to an average yield.

A daily practice for more than thirty years, of an external application of cold water from the big toe up, justifies the writer of this in certifying to the hygienic advantages of this simple but necessary practice to prepare one to enjoy good health, even with a comparatively feeble constitution. Then go for Mr. Forster's bath, not only once a month, but once in twenty-four hours. It will pay.

Hess & Bro have just been receiving a lot of new pumps, a good article for raising cold water out of the ground.

McLain's big pump is in everybody's mouth—and the water coming out of it is—for it is the praise of all these sultry days. It is worth more to the people than all the grog-shops in America.

You can buy lawns cheap at Humberger & Son's. Call and see them.

No circus has invaded our territory this season. We can be as independent as they are, for if they can get along without us we will try to weather along without them.

Last week much of the wheat in this part of the country was in shock, and the fields thus adorned were thickly dotted with these evidences of an abundant harvest. Oats look well, and is beginning to change color, and most of the corn is magnificent. The showers of rain on Monday somewhat interfered with harvest operations.

Much interest was taken several days last week at Mansfield, in the trial of agricultural implements, something more than one hundred varieties being present and ready for the contest. At this writing we have not heard the result as to which is the successful competitor.

Table linen at old time prices and less at Humberger & Son's.

Mr. Joe Bahney has caught the spirit of improvement, as may be seen by his painting up the front of his furniture ware rooms in the stone block on Erie st. He manufactures and constantly keeps on hand a large stock of everything needed in his useful branch of business.

A physician is said to be opening an office in the room just east of Rindenstein's drug store, in the neat frame building lately put up by Mr. Coleman.

The English Catholic church at Canton on last Sunday brought together a very large collection of people, which was occasioned by laying the corner stone of a new church, to be erected in the north-west part of town, near the site of the small, ancient building, which is now entirely inadequate for use by the large and increasing congregation. Bishop Rosecrans, of the Cincinnati diocese, assisted by quite a number of priests, performed the imposing ceremonies in presence of thousands of people, all of whom were eager to see and hear, as far as possible, all that transpired. Everything was done to have the occasion a success, and as the day was favorable, though pretty hot, there seemed to be no disappointment in these anticipations.

Most of the concourse was made up of the Catholic persuasion, though many hundreds of others were present to witness what transpired. Nearly 400 went from here on a special train, on Sunday morning, and probably as many came from the east by similar means. We noticed the presence of several benevolent associations connected with the church, among which was the St. Josephs, of this place, all of whom marched in procession to the place designated, preceded by a brass band, each association having a beautiful banner, richly finished, on which were fine, expressive pictures. A considerable number of boys, with similar regalia, followed the men, and they were succeeded by a long procession of little girls, all dressed in white. In addition to music by the band, a choir performed several appropriate pieces at proper intervals during the ceremony. A short time after the stone was put in place, Bishop Rosecrans addressed the concourse for a few minutes extemporaneously, on points connected with the proposed new edifice, and expressed satisfaction at the good order observed. A great anxiety on the part of many was to see and hear the bishop, as he is a distinguished man on account of the position he holds in his church, as well as for his learning and ability as a theologian. He is a fine looking man, and speaks fluently, using choice language, easily understood. Some enterprising photographer had his camera charged, and took an impression of the bishop and clergy, in their canonicals, at the moment of laying the corner stone. If he succeeded in securing a faithful impression he will make a good thing of it, for not a few will desire to have a correct likeness of the scene.

The entire length of the new church, including chapel, is about 100 feet, and of proportionate width. The side walls and that of the north end are now up to the eaves of the first roof, but the front, or south end, at which the corner stone is placed, has only the foundation laid. Large quantities of building material surround the edifice, among which were a great number of huge stone pillars from the Massillon quarries.

The old church is said, by some to be the first of this class of buildings in Ohio, having been put up in 1818, or more than half a century ago. For a long time it was quite large enough to accommodate the worshippers assembling there, but now is entirely too small for their use.

A number of energetic ladies, we suppose of the Catholic church, did a good day's work in collecting several baskets full of greenbacks, which go toward defraying the heavy expenses incurred in building so large and elegant a place of worship.

The contractor for putting up the new school house has just received 35,000 bricks, of superior quality, for the front. With the supply on hand previously had it is expected that the work will now be energetically pushed forward to completion.

Myers & Willison have just put up a good sized frame building which they design for the blacksmith department in the manufacture of heavy wagons. This indicates progress in the right direction.

By posters about town we notice that the board of health has given notice that everybody must clean up their premises. As the hot weather will be with us for some time yet this is a caution which should be heeded.

Our park commissioners are taking preliminary steps for laying out and ornamenting the park, and ere long will commence operations by grading the ground, and having such other work performed as is needed to carry out their designs. We hope soon to report progress at least.

The Memphis giant (I) who is about thirty inches in height, and proportionately big all over, and some 21 years of age, was a source of considerable curiosity to our juveniles and others, who ran after him in crowds wherever he went, on Monday last. He is an intelligent young man, social, communicative, and converses freely with those with whom he comes in contact. He was selling his photographs and a brief sketch of his life.

The sly quaker, and other styles of hoop skirts at Estep's.

As many of our citizens have occasion to use the Niles & New Lisbon railroad we have inserted the time table, so as to enable them to know at what times trains pass over the road. Two express trains now daily pass through both ways, besides a long train of coal cars, which are carrying large quantities of coal to Cleveland every day. Estep still has a few packages of the fragrant Hedrysosmia.

Mr. Warren C. Richards, who has long carried on the blacksmithing business in the part of Massillon known as Kendall, is now erecting a shop on Factory street, nearly opposite the candy factory, where he will soon be prepared to do the work of his numerous customers. Mr. R. has been long and favorably known as an industrious and successful mechanic in his indispensable occupation, and thus coming nearer the center of business, and extending his facilities for doing work will enable him to accommodate still more customers than he has yet done.

In alluding to the advantages which the Beaver Seminary and Musical Institute possesses for imparting musical instruction under direction of that accomplished instructor, Prof. A. Bouter, we last week printed that there were, beside two organs, two pianos, when it should have been two pianos—a material error, which we take pleasure in correcting. Among them is a Chickering Grand, large size, of great power and superb action, used principally for concerts.

Smith, Bowman & Co., to whose establishment we have heretofore alluded, are having a large run of business in the way of tin and copper work, as much as they can do to fill the commands of customers. Then they have a superior assortment of stoves, hundreds of which they have sold, and still the demand for them is increasing.

The Massillon Silver Band appear to be progressing encouragingly, and are doing very well for a new organization. A large portion of our citizens wish them abundant success, for they are qualifying themselves for efficiency in instrumental music. They performed several pieces very well on Monday evening at Madison Hall, and were successful in aiding to collect the people together.

Col. Ball, of Canton, is both enterprising and indefatigable in preparing the fair grounds for the accommodation of the coming state camp meeting, which commences on the 23d of August. He has taken down the rickety old stand for the use of bands and public speakers, &c., and has put up a neat and tasteful structure, which is not only a useful addition to the grounds, but ornamental as well. He is also placing pumps in some half dozen places, so as to provide an abundance of the drink the gift of nature for man and beast. Many other improvements are introduced, all of which will prove advantageous to the place, whether used for fairs or other public purposes.

We are under obligations to Hon. A. G. Thurman for a copy of G. W. Morgan's speech. George appears to be afraid that the eastern states will draw all the wealth of the west into their coffers. If so they will have a heavy job on hand.

Monday and Tuesday was rather showery—what some people denominated briskle—for successful work in the harvest fields.

The fashions—always fickle—are now represented by tight pants, bob-tailed coats, plug hats, shoo-fly neckties—the compound being something of a shanghai rig. Once in a while in the big cities a huge necktie may be seen moving about with a very small specimen of humanity attached. As to the styles of 'bether sex go to the fashionable churches where they appear in all their glory, more gorgeous than the peacock. And often more expensive than the masculines can well afford.

Estep has just opened a line of elegant handkerchiefs, including fine lace, embroidered borders and brussels lace.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

July 6, 1870.

In consequence of sickness and other indispensable engagements of the clerk of the city council he has been unable to furnish as full proceedings of that body, at its last meeting as is desirable, for they were of more than ordinary interest and fullness. He has, however, kindly furnished a few notes from which we make up a rather imperfect synopsis, and if errors creep in we shall do what we can to correct them.

A full attendance of the members was present, the chairman, G. L. Russell, presiding.

Mr. London, chairman of committee on finance, reported in favor of paying clerk of board of city improvements $50, which was laid on the table for future action.

Mr. Ogden reported several new ordinances for different purposes, among which was one, No. 108, establishing a grade on Cherry and North streets.

Appropriations were voted for various purposes, in all amounting to about $900.

The marshal's monthly report for June, in collection of fines and licenses, amounted to $14.

A communication from George Harsh, Esq., protesting against the vacation of any street or alley, was referred to park committee.

James Baylies, Esq., tendered his resignation as a member of the board of health, and Dr. J. B. Schertzer appointed to fill the vacancy.

The judiciary committee was instructed to report an ordinance fixing the mayor's salary at $312.50 a year.

Ward commissioners were appointed consisting of Wm. Foltz, first ward; A. Board, second ward; P. Korman, third ward; and J. Braham, fourth ward. Bonds fixed at $500.

Committee on printing were authorized to have such work done as was deemed necessary for the board of health.

Poplins, silks, Japanese goods, lawns, Marselles and many fabrics adapted to the season at Estep's.

The Independent, Massillon, Ohio. Is now Seven Years Old, and "Still Lives."

Without boasting of being an organ of immense influence, we may with diffidence claim that the paper is not without usefulness in the right direction, ever contending for justice on all the living issues of the day. But its principal business has ever been to subserve the local interests of the community with which it is identified, and so it proposes to continue. Its home record of the ever varying phases of business, of the prosperity of the city, and of the social and moral state of society here, with other matters too numerous to specify, will give those who come after us, and have occasion to examine the files of this paper, a faithful history of the years of its existence.

We solicit the continued patronage of our people in the confidence that we shall render satisfaction—at least as near as we can come at it—and for such as are removing elsewhere we hope to make the INDEPENDENT a very welcome visitor.

Health's Best Reference. "The weak catch herbs," says St. Paul, so that eighteen hundred years ago the value of medicinal plants was appreciated. In the Old Testament botanical remedies are repeatedly recommended, but in no passage of sacred history is there so much as a recommendation of a remedy, or a blue pill, or any other mineral preparation. The sick were directed to eat herbs to strengthen them, to purify them, to heal them, to restore them. In that day the art of making vegetable extracts was unknown. The herbal medicines were mere infusions.

DYSPEPSIA: THE Medical Properties Possessed by BELTZHOOVER'S Dyspeptic Bitters. Are fully attested by the certificates of well known gentlemen who have tested their virtues. Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Ague, General debility, and similar diseases are totally eradicated from the system by their use, while as a blood purifier and appetizer, they are unsurpassed.

At this season of the year the human system is generally in a debilitated condition, and a tonic is necessary for the preservation of health. The Dyspeptic Bitters are strongly recommended for their tonic virtues, and many persons are deriving great benefit from their use. These Bitters are the best in the market, and are being generally adopted by our citizens.

FERGUSON'S CAT.
There was a man named Ferguson,
He lived on Market street,
He had a speckled Thomas cat,
That could not well be beat;
He'd catch more rats and mice and such
Than forty cats could eat.

This cat would come into a room
And climb upon a chair,
And then he'd set and lick himself
And purr so awful queer,
That Ferguson would yell at him;
And there he'd purr-severe.

And then he'd climb the moonlit fence,
And loaf around and yowl,
And spit and claw another cat
Alongside of the jowl.
And then they'd both shake their tails
And jump about and howl.

Oh, this here cat of Ferguson's
Was fearful then to see;
He'd jump precisely like he was In awful agony;
You'd think some first-class stomach ache
Had struck some small baby.

And all the mothers in the street,
Waked by the horrid din,
Would rise right up and search their babies
To find some worrying pin;
And still this vicious cat would keep
A hollering like sin.

And as for Mr. Ferguson,
"Two more than he could bear,
And so he had his boot-jack out,
Right through the midnight air,
But this vicious Thomas cat,
Not one cent did he care."

For still he howled and kept his fur
A standing up on end,
And his old spine a double up
As far as it would bend.
As if his hopes for happiness
Did on his lungs depend.

But while a curvin of the spine
And writin to attack
A cat upon another fence,
He'd come an awful crack;
And this here speckled Thomas cat
Was busted in the back.

While Ferguson came down next day,
To find his old time,
And not a life was left in him
After such a hard time.
"All this here comes," said Ferguson,
"Of curvin of the spine."

No, no, no, men who can't take hearts,
The cat, the cat does tack,
Just take this moral to yourselves,
All of you, white and black,
Don't evergo like this here cat,
To gettin' up your back!

THE PRESS WORLD

Those who are in the habit of attending police and other courts must have observed the difficulty under which lawyers and judges labor, sometimes, in getting witnesses to testify in legal form. The following which took place in a Cincinnati court, is an amusing and perfect example. A man had been caught in the act of theft, and pleaded in extenuation that he was drunk:

Court (to the policeman who was witness): "What did the man say when you arrested him?"

Witness—"He said he was drunk."

Court—"I want his precise words, just as he uttered them; he didn't use the pronoun he did he? He didn't say 'he was drunk'?"

Witness—"Oh, yes, he did—he said he was drunk; he acknowledged the corn."

Court (getting impatient at the witness' stupidity): "You don't understand me at all; I want the words just as he uttered them; he didn't say, 'I was drunk'?"

Witness (deprecatingly): "Oh, no, your honor. He didn't say you was drunk; I wouldn't allow any man to charge that upon my presence."

Prosecutor—"Pshaw! you don't comprehend at all. His honor means, did not the prisoner say to you, 'I was drunk'?"

Witness (reflectively): "Well, he might have said you was drunk, but I didn't hear him."

Attorney for prisoner (blandly): "What the court desires is to have you state the prisoner's exact words, preserving the precise form of pronoun that he made use of in the reply. Was it the first person I, the second person thou, or the third person he, she, or it?"

Now, then, sir, (with severity,) upon your oath, didn't my client say, 'I was drunk'?"

Witness (getting mad): "No he didn't say you was drunk either, but if he had, I reckon he wouldn't a lied any. Do you suppose the poor fellow charged this whole court with being drunk?"

A POSTAL INCIDENT

A young man from the rural district went to a post office in New York with a bank note for a dollar's worth of postage stamps. He was told that paper money was not received. He went for Spanish quarters.

"We don't receive them now, said the attendant for more than twenty four cents a piece."

The countryman thought Uncle Sam mighty particular, and he went and obtained a dollar's worth of coppers.

"Now," said he, returning to the office and laying down his pile on the window of delivery, "I guess I can suit ye."

The man inside looked at the array of coppers, and coolly replied—
"We never take more than three cents in copper at one time; it is not legal tender above that sum."

The countryman looked at the composed official for the space of a minute without stirring, and then belched out:
"Look here, you ain't you mighty kind of particular for fellows backed up in such a jaff as this 'ere? You don't take only three cents of copper at a time, hey? Well then, suppose you give me three cents' worth of stamps, any how?"

The official very politely cut him off a single stamp and passed it out, for which the countryman laid down three cents. He was about to pass away when the latter cried out:

"Look here, you, that ere's one at a time. Now suppose you give me three cents worth more of them?"

Uncle Sam's clerk was not slow in discovering that he had caught a Tartar. He turned back to the window and asked:

"How many coppers have you got?"

DR. PIERCE'S ALT. EXT. MEDICAL
GOLDEN DISCOVERY
It is the most thorough blood purifier yet discovered, and cures all humors from the worst secondary to a common eruption. Pimples and blotches on the face, and a scaly or rough skin, which are such annoying blemishes to many young persons, yield to the use of a few bottles of this wonderful medicine. Freedom from the scum and ring worms, boils, scaly eruptions of the skin, scrofula, sores, ulcers, and cancer in the mouth and stomach. It is a pure medicinal extract of native roots and plants, combining in harmony nature's most sovereign curative properties, which God has instilled into the vegetable kingdom for healing the sick. It is a great restorer of the strength and vigor of the system. Those who are languid, sleepless, have nervous apprehensions or fears, or any of the affections symptomatic of weakness, will find convincing evidence of its restorative power upon trial. If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated and despondent, have frequent headache, mouth tastes badly in the morning, irregular appetite and tongue coated, you are suffering from torpid liver or biliousness. In many cases of liver complaint only a part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal as it effects perfect cures, leaving the liver strengthened and healthy. For the cure of habitual constipation of the bowels it is a never failing remedy, and those who have used it for this purpose are loud in its praise. In bronchial, throat and lung diseases, it has produced many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed. Sold by druggists at $1 per bottle. Prepared at the Chemical Laboratory of R. V. PIERCE, M. D. Buffalo, N. Y. 63-3m

MRS. ALLEN'S
Hair Restorer & Zylolalsamum
Are so uniformly grateful and beneficial, that they are with justice called the natural strengtheners of the human hair. They are two entirely separate and distinct preparations, not to be used together at one time.
Mrs. Allen's Hair Restorer
Never fails to satisfy the most refined and cultivated. Aged ladies use it with every bottle, that it will quickly restore gray or white hair to its original youthful beauty, gloss and color; after its use a few hairs the hair will grow thicker and stronger. It will stop its falling and induce a healthy and luxuriant growth. It is an exquisite hair dressing, agreeable, harmless and healthy. Entirely different from most other preparations for the hair; its composition and ingredients are nourishing, giving life and vigor to the roots.
Mrs. Allen's Zylolalsamum
This exquisite preparation is free from any sediment, and is a toilet treasure. The urgent want of a simple Hair Dressing, for the youth of both sexes, first induced the manufacture of the Zylolalsamum, and the sale of it is perfectly immense, not only in this country, but in Europe.
EXTRACTS FROM A FEW LETTERS.
"Your Zylolalsamum has been used for many years by myself and family, and is the favorite among our young ladies."
"Father and mother use your Hair Restorer, and are delighted with it. It soon restored their gray locks to their youthful color, but daughter and son still find it the Zylolalsamum all their hair requires."
From the Principal of one of our large Female Seminaries: "Your Zylolalsamum has been used for many years by myself and family, and is the favorite among our young ladies."
Sold by all Druggists, Wholesale Depot, S. R. VAN DUZER & CO., 35 Barclay St. and 40 Park Place, New-York.
